

International Conference “The position of the individual in modern legal systems”

30 May - 02 June, 2018., Čanj,
Montenegro seaside

The position of the individual evolved over past decades in various legal systems and in some areas this change can be described as revolutionary. For example, in the area of the international law the position developed “from scratch” over time to the point where individual have active legitimation in many courts (ECHR i.e.). In some legal areas however individuals have always held a crucial role – tax law, for example, is created for the individuals and their position in those systems is not on a standstill, but rather emerges over the time. Since every law is created by the people with ultimate goal to serve the people, this conference will use the opportunity to determine position of individuals in various systems and assert current trends.
